Dean Holmes Portrait To Be Unveiled Sunday

A portrait of Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, UK dean of women-emeritus, will be unveiled in ceremonies at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in Holmes Hall, which was named in her honor.

More than 125 of Mrs. Holmes' friends commissioned the painting, done by Sudduth Golf of Lexington and New York.

Miss Chloe Gifford, president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs, Inc., who is on leave from UK Extended Programs, will present the portrait on behalf of Mrs. Holmes' friends. It will be received for the University by President Frank G. Dickey and Mrs. Holmes will give the response. Dr. Doris M. Seward, UK dean of women, will preside.

A reception for the artist will be given from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Holmes Hall lounge.

A native of Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., Mrs. Holmes received the

A.B. and M.A. degrees at UK. She taught at the Glen Ridge, N.J. High School from 1906-1910 and was Dean of Girls at Sayre School, Lexington, from 1924-29.

She came to the University in 1929 as assistant dean of women, a position she held until 1938. She served as acting dean of women in 1941 and one year later was appointed dean of women.

Mrs. Holmes has four children: Mrs. John McVey, Arlington, Va.; Mr. Smith Broadbent, Cadiz, Ky.; John H. Holmes, Louisville, and Dr. Kendall B. Holmes, Fresno, Calif.

She is a past president of the Lexington branch of the American Association of University Women, the Family Welfare Society, and the Kentucky Association of Deans of Women. She is also a member of Mortar Board, Cwens, Kappa Delta Pi, National Association of Deans of Women and the Lexington YWCA board.

Freshman Law Students Receive False Grades

Falling grades were issued to freshmen law students for their mid semester work.

These grades appeared suddenly, posted on plain stationery, and many bewildered freshmen law students saw D's and E's for half a semester of hard work.

Each year, law students are given an examination number, known only by themselves and by the professor assigning it. The purpose of the number is to enable the student to learn his grade without disclosing it to others.

Oddly enough, each year these exam numbers are posted with false grades, which usually creates an uproar among the freshmen. Someone always manages to get the exam numbers of the freshmen from the dean's office, where only he and his secretary have access to them.

The practice of posting false grades has been carried on for a number of years.

Members of the College of Law refused to comment on the prank.

Homecoming Traditions Declining

By CHRISTA FINLEY

Saturday when Kentucky meets Tennessee, it will be the ninth time the Wildcats have fought the Volunteers in a Homecoming game.

Of these games, Kentucky has won two, lost five and tied two.

This will be the 29th Homecoming for Kentucky. Beginning in 1928, it has won 15 of these and lost 13. No Homecoming games were played in 1943 and 1944 due to World War II.

Since it began, much of the color, tradition, and enthusiasm found in the Homecoming weekend has been lost.

It used to be an annual affair to celebrate Homecoming with gigantic bonfires, pajama parades, burning of freshmen beanies, and torch parades.

In 1930, some of the less modest UK students staged a pajama and nightgown parade through downtown Lexington. Many of the students (male that is) competed in a beard growing contest.

A few of the more privileged were shaved on Homecoming day by the Homecoming queen, who had the distinction of being the first woman barber at UK.

Band members, including the band director, took over the pajama parade in 1932. They were accompanied by approximately 200 torch bearers.

In 1934 and 1935, downtown department stores competed in a window decoration contest.

A different kind of battle took place on the football field during the intermission of the 1938 game. Kentucky's "Best Band in Dixie" and Alabama's "Million Dollar Band" competed in a musical grudge battle.

In 1939, NBC radio, Fox and Universal newsreels covered Homecoming celebrations which consisted of a giant pep rally, another President Frank G. Dickey, Football Coach Blanton Collier, and the Wildcat co-captains will speak at the pep rally at 7 o'clock tonight.

A torch parade at 6:30 p.m. will kick off the Homecoming activities. The two-part parade, led by the Marching 100, will begin both on fraternity row and at the women's residence halls.

The pep rally will be held inside the Coliseum.

Voting for the Homecoming queen and her three attendants was completed yesterday afternoon. They will be presented at the halftime ceremonies of the Tennessee-Kentucky game tomorrow and the Homecoming dance Saturday night.

The Tennessee band and the Marching 100 will present the halftime show at the game.

Prizes will also be awarded in three divisions for the best Homecoming decorations; fraternity, sorority, and independent.

Dr. Schwartz Returns Here After Tour

Dr. Douglas W. Schwartz, director of the UK Museum of Anthropology, returned Wednesday night from a two week speaking tour in the west.

The associate professor of anthropology spoke at Santa Fe, N. M.; Los Angeles, and San Francisco, Calif.; and Seattle, Spokane, and Walla Walla, Wash. His trip was sponsored by the Archaeological Institute of America.

Dr. Schwartz discussed recent archaeological investigations in Mammoth Cave and his research involving prehistoric man in the Grand Canyon.

Schedule Books

Second semester class schedule books will be available Monday afternoon. It was announced by Registrar Charles F. Elton Wednesday.

Students may pick them up at the office of the dean of their college. Student preclassification begins Tuesday.

Torch Parade, Rally Kickoff Homecoming

Nine sororities, three fraternities, and most of the women's residence halls are building Homecoming displays.

The three fraternities are Alpha Gamma Rho, Pi Kappa Alpha, and Kappa Sigma. They are building the decorations voluntarily for the first time this year because of a Interfraternity ruling passed earlier this semester.

The only sorority which is not building a display was Zeta Tau Alpha. A spokesman for the group said building one takes "too much time and money."

Independent displays are being constructed by Keeneland, Holmes, Boyd, and Jewell Halls, and Dillard and Hamilton Houses.

George Smith's band will play for the Homecoming dance to be held from 9 to 12:30 in the ballroom of the SUB. Miss Marian Spelman will be the vocalist.

Registration for alumni Homecoming activities will be held from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Lafayette, Kentuckian, and Phoenix hotels, Campbell House, Springs Motel, and the SUB.

Each registration place will be staffed by two members of the Alumni Association Board and two members of SpKy.

President and Mrs. Frank G. Dickey will entertain alumni and friends of the University with a reception in the ballroom after the game.

The UK Alumni Association will give a dance for alumni and friends of the University from 8:30 p.m. to midnight Saturday in the Phoenix Hotel Convention Hall. The Jack Gay orchestra will play.

Campus Seal Contest Enters Tenth Year

The annual Christmas Seal campaign is underway on the UK campus with the "Miss Christmas Seal" contest going into its 10th year of existence.

Students are receiving Christmas Seal letters and ballots this week. Each dollar contribution entitles a student to one vote in the contest.

The contest, which originated in 1949, will end at midnight, Dec. 17, and is restricted to UK students. Students who do not receive Christmas Seals and ballots may obtain them from the Lexington-Fayette County Tuberculosis Association, or one of the contestants or participating organizations.

Candidates for the title and the organizations they represent are Jackie Kleponis—Alpha Delta Pi, Sigma Nu, and Triangle; Linda Coffman—Alpha Gamma Delta, Delta Tau Delta, and Phi Gamma Delta; Katherine Benton—Alpha Xi Delta, Alpha Sigma Phi, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Debbie Daniel—Chi Omega, Farmhouse, and Kappa Alpha; Anne Shaver—Delta Delta Delta, Lambda Chi Alpha, and Pi Kappa Alpha; Noel Rohyans—Delta Zeta, Phi Delta Theta, and Tau Kappa Epsilon.

Ethelee Davidson—Kappa Alpha Theta, Alpha Tau Omega, and Kappa Sigma; Jean Lovern—Kappa Delta; Sigma Chi, and Sigma Phi Epsilon; Sue McCauley—Kappa Kappa Gamma, Phi Kappa Tau, and Phi Sigma Kappa; Pat Schultz—Zeta Tau Alpha, Alpha Gamma Rho, and Zeta Beta Tau.

The contestant receiving the largest number of votes through Christmas Seal purchases will be presented an engraved trophy.

Miss Christmas Seal Candidates

Homecoming Ugh!

Dianné Capchart, Linda Soto, and Jennifer Held, preparing the Homecoming display for Holmes Hall, are three of the many UK students busy this week preparing for Saturday's Homecoming Game with Tennessee.

Pig In Poke Disturbs SAE Active Meeting

A "pig-in-the-poke" was thrown through the basement window of the SAE house into the midst of the active meeting, a SAE spokesman said yesterday.

The pig, described as a "big little white pig" weighing about 50 or 60 pounds, was thrown through the sub-terra window in a sack Wednesday night, the spokesman said.

He reported that pledges had probably thrown it through the window.

A Chi O said the pig was thrown in their front door and then they tossed it into the Tri Delt house.

She added it was thought that the pig was meant to be passed around.

A representative of the Tri Delt said they had been told to pass the pig on but instead called the Humane Society. Until the Humane Society arrived about 10 p.m., the sorority kept the pig in the kitchen, she said.

The Humane Society reported that they will keep the pig until the owner comes to claim it. They said if the owner does not claim the pig by the end of next week they will begin advertising in the local papers.

Phi Delta Chi Initiates Members

Phi Delta Chi, men's professional pharmaceutical fraternity, initiated five new members at ceremonies last week.

The five initiates are Robert S. Clark, Harrodsburg; T. Roger Cook, Cumberland; Jack Ray Osmad, Vanceburg; John Shelby Street, Cadiz; and Tom Moran Samuels, Danville.

Placement Service Interviews Set

Experimentation To Begin On Ham Curing Process

The University will soon begin experimenting with heat treatment of country hams to determine if the curing process can be speeded up without affecting the taste of the meat.

Tests will be conducted between now and Christmas by Dr. James D. Kemp, professor of animal husbandry, who is a meat specialist.

The project will be financed by a $6,000 grant from the Kentucky Department of Economic Development.

Dr. Kemp said he has already produced "what we think is a pretty good ham" in six months by keeping it at a constant 85 degree temperature.

Increasing the temperature in future experiments may speed up the curing process, he said. The normal aging period in a smokehouse is from 10 to 12 months or longer, he explained. The new process is expected to reduce shrinkage, also.

He plans to start with about 30 hams, probably from the UK Experiment Station swine herd.

Unusual Discovery

BALTIMORE (AP)—Who could match this true family story?

A woman in suburban Ruxton knew for years that one of her direct ancestors was a newspaper editor shot and killed in a duel near Pittsburgh about 1805.

Her husband knew for years that one of his direct ancestors was another newspaper editor who killed a man in a duel near Pittsburgh about 1805.

But they were married for 10 years before man and wife learned that their ancestors were in the same duel.

Translator Wanted

BALTIMORE (AP)—For more than a year, Miss Odette Achain has received what appeared to her to be love letters from a gentleman in Tunisia, Africa.

The Tunisian hired a secretary to write his letters in what he thought was French. But Miss Achain reads French like a Frenchwoman—which she is—and knew the man was unaware of exactly what his secretary was writing.

Miss Achain explained the letters were coming in Petit Negre, which is elementary French as it is spoken in the colonies by the natives. So she asked her pen pal to forward some of his sentiments in his own hand.

He did. The letter came the other day, written in Arabic.

Student Directory Will Go On Sale Before Christmas

Student directories will go on sale sometime after the Thanksgiving holidays, and before the Christmas holidays.

The announcement was made yesterday by Diane Vittitow, chairman of the Student Congress committee in charge of the publication.

She said the list of girls' names had gone to the printer, and the list of boys' names would follow as soon as the typing of them was completed.

The front of the directory has been designed and sent to the printers, Miss Vittitow announced. She said the supplementary list of names was almost completed.

According to Miss Vittitow, the directories will probably cost the same as last year's. Last year's directory cost 15 cents.

Homecoming--'59 Style

By BOBBIE MASON

Homecoming is here again, that purple passion and crepe paper holiday when we all attire ourselves in our uncomfortable and impractical best to endure a 13-below-zero football game.

This year's event surpasses all others with its 28 popularity contestants of assorted species, all dressed in the feathers of fancy. And then there are helium balloons, those ambiguous late permissions, an overactive Homecoming Committee, an overactive police force, shoddy lawn displays, and Homecoming bands (who the hell is George Smith?).

It is a time when that fatal and unfounded prejudice known as team loyalty emerges and sports announcers get excited to ecstasy. It is ideal midsemester compensation for academic disappointment when, far from the fever and fret of life, we can sinmer in joy until we finally become stewed. Homecoming weekend is sufficient to give UK its deserved title of biggest party school in the country. Its effect is psychologically devastating.

Even the Marching 100 exceeds itself with T-formations and happy sounds in hi-fi.

And, in this religio-mythical setting, lest we be overcome by an obnoxious sense of virtue, there is the "drinking problem." There is, of course, a practical purpose for this otherwise offensive habit—keeping warm at the game. Imagine what will happen when they get those new hard-top convertible buildings with weatherproof linings just like Mt. Palomar. The purpose of drinking at games will be defeated. In such a sky-liner we will have to resort to hand jive or something. Probably or something.

Not to ignore the purpose of Homecoming itself which is, as the misnomer suggests, to give the alums a chance to come back from the University of Life and show us how they get out of their minds in a dignified manner.

And then if UK wins the Saturday afternoon circus we will clap our hands in glee and think that we will get Wednesday off as an early Christmas gift. So the faculty turns out to be a tribe of Indian givers.

One high school girl visited UK for a weekend and, being unacquainted with our unique standards of dressing for games, was annoyed because she was laughed at for wearing her V-necked trench coat and paisley print desert boots.

"Nobody would wear that to a dogfight," they told her, trying to be helpful.

"Is a dogfight but little worse than a style show on Stoll Field?" she retorted. "Who do you go to see, the football players or yourselves?"

"Why, the players of course," they replied, appalled at the idea.

"How unjust!" she moaned. "They don't get their chance to monopolize the fashion show."

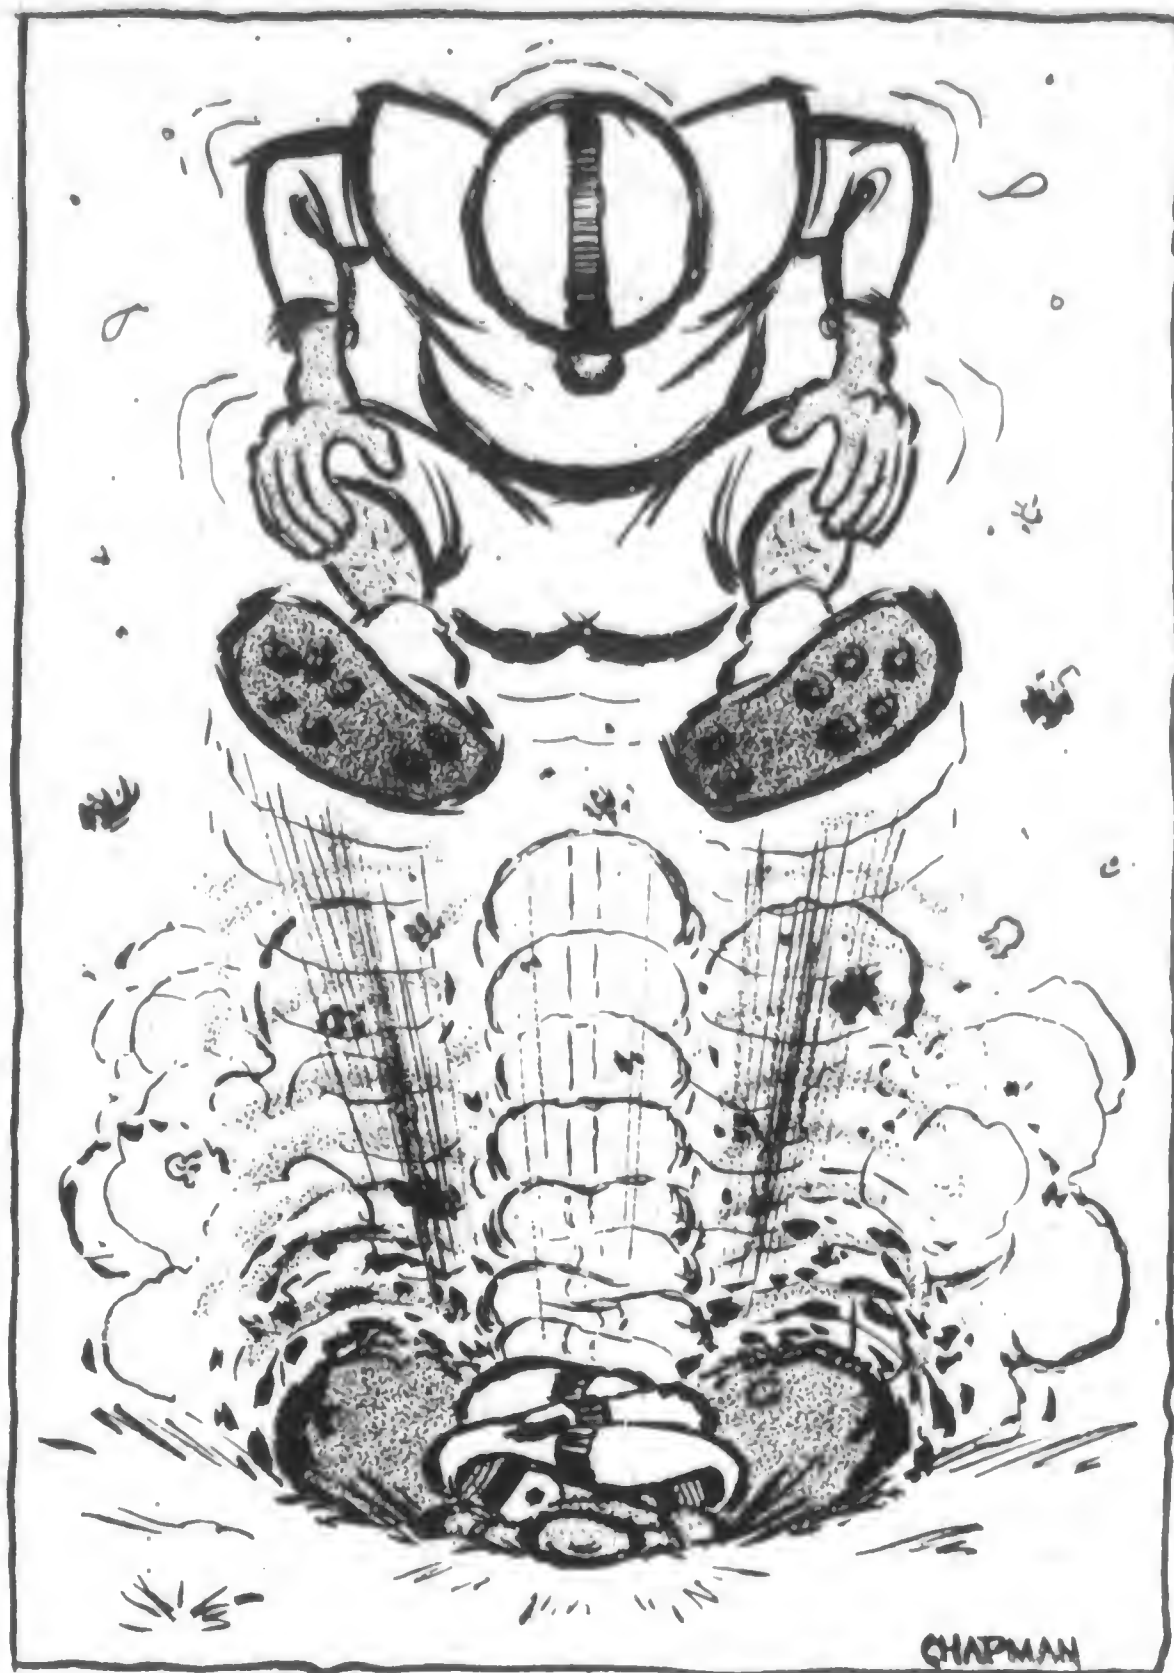

The cheerleaders, who are more in the public eye than the fans, wear socks with their shoes, and the cheers would make a hiccup sound like an earthquake in the Holland Tunnel. Everyone is so conscious of his own appearance that no one pays any attention to anybody else. And we reach the height of helplessness when we depend on SuKy to tell us what to wear. But with a queen and several attendants at each game, we would have something worth going to. A minor Homecoming every weekend.

And with special seating arrangements where all are discriminated against, it seems logical that there should be a special section for the faculty and one for the faculty's dates, as well as one for members of the local Cranberry Association. Or, advocates of birth control could sit on the east end of the stadium and those against it on the west end. Adequate representation for all—separate but equal.

But football games are not to be underrated. With all the scuttle and scurry in getting tickets, once you get inside the gate you can't leave. I remember once it began to rain and our special section decided to leave and listen to the radio instead. At the gate we met a gentleman who would not let us out until he had confiscated our ID cards, our union cards, our non-transferrable meal tickets, and our Zorro rings. He would have stopped an ambulance carrying a player with nosebleed, I'm sure.

Not to be subdued, however, we always have the opportunity to exercise our one inalienable right as civic-minded students by trotting over to the TUB to vote for Homecoming Queen.

Ah, Homecoming is full of dulce et utile.

"I sure didn't Volunteer for this."

A Compliment

To The Editor:

I'm sure that newspaper personnel must frequently face the same situation teachers do. In our profession we usually hear from the public only when someone is angry or wants a favor from us. Otherwise, all is quiet.

I would like to be something of an exception and write you without either in mind. This is to compliment you on the general quality of your editorial page all year long. Your editorials have almost always dealt with significant matters and have been well written.

I am particularly impressed with your interest in the University and in education in general around the state. One can only "amen" your stand concerning more classroom space, less "tail-that-wags-the-dog" athletics, and the failure of the two local school tax levies.

Keep swinging, boys, we're with you. And thanks for not getting lost in the high weeds.

The Loudspeakers

To The Editor:

After tolerating the meaningless babble emanating from SuKy's loudspeakers for almost a whole football season, the undersigned feel obliged to speak out. This shameful, annoying, and loudmouthed practice should be discontinued at once, to prevent the embarrassment of the more intelligent students when our alums return next Saturday.

If this suggestion is not heeded, then we suggest that SuKy be disbanded and that many more loudspeakers be purchased to simulate a cheering section.

Students Busy With Homecoming Events

By ALICE AKIN

I had planned to slam the big Homecoming Queen this week, but due to circumstances beyond my control, decided to save it! Maybe next time.

Well, gang, this is it! The big weekend is finally upon us. And what other weekend is preceded by so much diligent work? Just for fun, let's flash back and see what has been going on in preparation for the event.

Ah, there's an interesting scene over on sorority row. The race for the trophies is on and every Greek female wears a look of determination as she stomps down to the basement to labor on the display.

A lot of time and effort goes into the elaborate construction of these things and as a result, text books have been completely deserted for the past week.

But after all, who can study when the chairman of Homecoming drags out the megaphone and harshly barks, "Stuff that chicken wire. Cut that crepe paper!"

But you ain't seen nothing yet until you watch tonight's amusing festivities when the attempt is made to drag the gigantic construction out of the basement and hoist it in the yard, trees, or on top of the house.

After a few casualties, it will probably be decided that maybe the masculine gender could be of some help. So, enticed by free coffee and other goodies, the fraternity boys are utilized and it is they who end up putting the thing up.

And speaking of the boys, this is the first year that all fraternities haven't participated in the contest. Maybe they didn't have enough room for another trophy.

Anyway, the ones that aren't doing anything at all in decorating have concentrated on making the parties a little more fun for alums as well as chapter members.

As a result, tomorrow morning will be filled with various social functions such as jam sessions, brunches, etc. And naturally all alums will be honored after the game with open houses scheduled by both sorority and fraternity groups.

And then tomorrow after everyone has withstood the weather at Stoll Field and has watched the halftime festivities, back to the lodges for a quick change in clothes and then off to the Homecoming Dance at the SUB. George Smith and his band of renown will play.

And finally at 1 a.m., 10,000 sleepy eyes will blink and once more Homecoming with all its mixture of comedy and tragedy will end.

Guess that's about it for the social picture this weekend. There's really not too much to be actually written about the occasion—you just have to survive it to know what it means.

Hope the weekend is a treat instead of a treatment and will see you around after Thanksgiving holidays.

Cats Will Try For Big One Tomorrow

By JOHNNY FITZWATER

Break out your warmest garments, prepare your nerves for a rugged football game, be ready to battle the crowds, and budget your time for a long weekend . . . it's Homecoming and Tennessee is in town.

As usual the stage is set for the annual grid classic with bad weather, two good teams, and a capacity crowd expected.

Among the six oldest rivalries in the South, the Kentucky-Tennessee series dates from a memorable encounter in Knoxville 66 years ago. On that date the Cats of UK rolled to a 60-0 win and took an edge in the series for the time being.

Since that game the Vols have taken the edge at 30-16 with eight games ending in tie scores.

Kentucky fell behind in the series while Gen. Bob Neyland was the Volunteer mentor.

Blanton Collier, Kentucky coach, has his own string going now, taking four of five games with the Vols since he took over at UK.

With tomorrow's 1:30 p.m. kickoff a game that couldn't be more typical of the ancient rivalry will be underway.

The Volunteers have been having a banner year, holding a spot in the top 10 and stopping the long win streaks of Auburn and LSU.

Last week the lads from Knoxville got a sudden shock when the Rebels of Ole Miss hammered out a 37-7 win over them to throw the Southeastern Conference crown in the lap of Georgia.

Kentucky on the other hand has a 3-6 record on the books, with wins over minor opposition such as Detroit, Miami, and Xavier of Cincinnati.

The Wildcats turned in beautiful games against Georgia Tech, Mississippi, Georgia, and LSU, but only watched Vanderbilt and Auburn ease to victory. Shaw will have played their last for Kentucky.

When the final gun sounds Ronnie Cain, Lowell Hughes, Ledger Howard, Cullen Wilson, George Boone, Rich Wright, Pascal Benson, Frank Schollett, Demo Johns, Bob Talamini, and Glenn

Billy Majors, brother of former Tennessee great and present UT freshman coach Johnny Majors, is an All-America candidate in his own right. He directs most of the offensive drives.

Everything Fox Does Satisfies His Boss

CHICAGO, Ill. (AP)—Al Lopez, manager of the Chicago White Sox, has been singing the praises of a number of his players but when he comes to Nellie Fox, his veteran second baseman, Senior Lopez goes all out.

"Fox is an unusual guy," says Lopez. "I cannot classify him as great this or great that. I cannot compare him with any other player, past or present because there is nobody quite like him."

"He's durable. He plays every day. He hits for you and scores runs for you. He makes the plays in the field."

There has never been anybody who hustled any more than Fox. He's just a great all-around ball player."

Fox has led the White Sox in most base hits each season since 1951.

In 1893 a football rivalry that has since developed into one of the nation's bitterest had a rather unspectacular beginning.

It was unspectacular for Tennessee, that is. The UK Wildcats rolled up a 60-0 victory over the Orange Ogres in Knoxville.

Since then, however, Kentucky's luck (and ability) in beating Tennessee has not been so fortunate.

Tennessee has whipped the Wildcats 30 times, while UK has been able to take 16. Eight have resulted in ties.

But the series has been composed of more than victories, wins, and ties.

It has been one of painting campuses, stealing mascots, fighting among students, pent-up emotions, cheering and jeering by the winners, and threats of "wait until next year" by the losers.

In short, it has been one hell of a football rivalry.

Now the two teams square off at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow for their 55th meeting. The game is important for both squads. Prestige and pride are at stake.

UK has not won a contest in Southeastern Conference action. The Vols have registered a 3-2-1 mark in league play, but their most important victory three weeks ago was one that startled the nation.

LSU, last year's national champs and 9-0 conquerer of the Wildcats, was the victim. However, the Orange Ogres didn't have the same flash last week against Mississippi, a team that lost to LSU, 7-3. The Rebels stripped the Vols' gears by 37-7.

From Kentucky's standpoint, then, this game looms as one of great sectional pride. A victory over the Vols could assuage some of the woe of a losing—if not miserable—season.

But emotion, that psychological factor which football coaches have realized only during the past decade, is always a strong factor in a Kentucky-Tennessee game.

Records can be tossed out the window. The team with the most determination (and luck) usually wins.

Calvin Bird will be ready for this game.

We don't have to ask him or even see him to know. We just know.

Last year Calvin, attempting to run a punt, tried to escape the oncoming Vols by sweeping backward in order to find running room. The only trouble was the end zone was waiting for him.

He was trapped in an end zone corner and driven out of bounds. Thus Tennessee accumulated a 2-0 lead before the Wildcats came back to pull out a 6-2 victory.

Past clashes with the Vols have been noteworthy for the gusto with which fans of both schools take to mascot stealing.

Last year Kentucky was the victim with disgruntled Tennessee rooters taking to the hills with SuKy's stuffed wildcat, Tucky.

Rumors as to what had happened to the purloined feline raged for four months until it was finally returned March 11.

Two years before, Colonel, then reigning mascot, was also stolen by overexuberant sports fans. Colonel was never seen again.

The mascot stealing isn't all one sided, however. Before the 1955 UK-UT clash a group of Kentucky students made their way to Knoxville to get Smoky, Tennessee's blue tick hound.

By stealth and careful plotting five hand picked men made off with the dog. He remained in Lexington for two weeks prior to the game, highlighting a pregame rally. Smoky was returned at the game, which was won by the Cats, 23-0.

Student Loan Program To Continue At UK

President Frank G. Dickey said Wednesday that there are no immediate plans for the university to withdraw from the Federal Student Loan Program.

UK received more than $130,000 this year for the program.

Yale and Harvard Universities withdrew from the Federal Student Loan Program last Tuesday night as a protest over the loyalty affidavit it requires.

Yale President A. Whitney Griswold said the loyalty affidavit was "contrary to the classic principles of our colleges and universities."

The controversial affidavit requires a student applying for a loan to swear that he does not believe in, belong to, or support "any organization that believes in or teaches the overthrow of the United States government by force or violence or by any legal or constitutional methods."

The faculty of Wesleyan University, Ohio, voted overwhelmingly its opposition to the affidavit requirements of the program.

Eight other schools withdrew officially from the government program recently. They are Grinnell, Iowa; St. John's and Goucher, Maryland; Antioch and Wilmington, Ohio; Bennington, Vermont; Reed, Oregon; and Sarah Lawrence, New York.

Three other colleges declined to enter the program because of the loyalty oath. They are Bryn Mawr, Haverford, and Swarthmore, all located near Philadelphia, Pa.

Earlier this week Dickey said the Association of Land Grant Colleges and state institutions passed a resolution to inform congressmen of the opposition at its annual meeting recently.

UK and Kentucky State College are among the 93 institutions that comprise the Association.

Graduate School

All January graduates who expect to enter the Graduate School for the second semester must apply for admission at once.

Applications can be obtained in the Office of the Registrar, Room 104, Administration Building.

"APPLE OF THE EYE"

For this overworked phrase, we must turn to the world's richest source of quotations—the Bible. Specifically, the Old Testament, Deuteronomy, XXXII, 10:
"He kept him as the apple of his eye."

"ALL IS NOT GOLD"

Seems like everybody had a crack at this piece of homely philosophy, but the originator seems to be Geoffrey Chaucer, in "The House of Fame", Book I:
"Hyt is not all gold that glareth"

"COUNT 10..."

Was there any limit to the talents of Thomas Jefferson? Statesman, scientist, architect—he also authored this admonition:

"When angry, count ten before you speak; if very angry, a hundred."

Jockey T-Shirts

The most respected, creative name in underwear is Jockey brand. It stands to reason, then, that Jockey brand T-shirts are unmatched for quality as well as styling. You can choose from standard crew neck T-shirt, "taper-tee" shirt, sleeveless T-shirt, and V-neck T-shirt models. Every man needs a drawer full of T-shirts—and the label to look for is Jockey brand.
